

PAULA COOPER GALLERY

Carte Blanche: A Changing Exhibition

243A Worth Ave, Palm Beach

March 20 – May 2, 2021

To conclude the Winter season in Palm Beach and the gallery's longest-running presentation outside of New York in over fifty years of business, we are pleased to present Carte Blanche: A Changing Exhibition. From March 20th through the end of April a selection of works will be in rotation, highlighting the meaningful and prolonged dialogue between artists that is central to the gallery's program.

In the 1980s the gallery was located at 155 Wooster Street in Soho, and exhibitions often evolved with the changing of individual works, rather than according to a preordained schedule. These Changing Exhibitions responded to the needs of both artists wanting to show works outside of the context of a one-person exhibition, and a local community that enjoyed regularly seeing new art. We are delighted to adapt to the needs of art viewers in Palm Beach and introduce new audiences to our traditions.

Over the course of the exhibition, artworks by the following artists will be on display. We invite visitors to return to the gallery and encounter new additions and juxtapositions in the coming months.

Carl Andre, Tauba Auerbach, Jennifer Bartlett, Cecily Brown, Beatrice Caracciolo, Bruce Conner, Mark di Suvero, Liz Glynn, Donald Judd, Julian Lethbridge, Sol LeWitt, Eric N. Mack, Christian Marclay, Justin Matherly, Claes Oldenburg, Walid Raad, Veronica Ryan, Joel Shapiro, Alan Shields, Kelley Walker, Dan Walsh, Meg Webster.